Twin Rivers . . . Last Stop for Runaway Freight

APPARENTLY UNMANNED, a Chicago & Northwestern freight train moved out of the Calumet switching yards at Manitowoc, Wis., passed through the city and then plunged into Twin Rivers, seven miles north of Manitowoc. The train's crew told police the engine had been left idling while the men were having breakfast in the roundhouse.

O'Neill Urges Quick Hearing On SUB Appeal

COLUMBUS (AP) — Gov. C. William O'Neill urges that the appeal of a court ruling affecting Supplemental Unemployment Benefits (SUB) be expedited.

The governor, vacationing with his family in Miami Beach, Fla., made his views known in a statement issued through his press secretary here Friday night.

In explaining why he thinks the state should appeal the SUB ruling of Mahoning County Common Pleas Court, O'Neill said:

"Because there are very important issues involved in this case I do not feel that it would be proper to allow the decision of a common pleas court of a single county to stand as the law of Ohio under the circumstances. The case can only be determined for the whole state by a decision of the Ohio Supreme Court."

THE MAHONING County court ruled Wednesday that SUB payments could be made to unemployed workers at the same time they receive state jobless benefits. The Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation held just the opposite view.

The governor already has asked the attorney general to take appropriate court action to stay execution of SUB payments. For this he has been criticized by at least one state representative and the Ohio CIO Council.

Atty. Gen. William Saxbe himself is opposed to staying the SUB payments, though not opposed to the appeal itself.

Some employers and employees contribute to a fund while the employee is working. It is this money which is used to finance SUB payments during the worker's unemployment.

O'Neill's statement regarding the Mahoning County court decision said, in part:

"This is a matter on which other common pleas courts could conceivably decide differently than the Mahoning County court. As a result there might develop a variety of methods of administering the law."

"Therefore, the case can only be determined for the whole state by a decision of the Ohio Supreme Court so that the rules governing the payment of SUB would be applied uniformly throughout the state."

"FURTHERMORE, the questions involved are of sufficient magnitude and importance for all the people that they should be decided by our highest court."

"I am certain if an appeal is expedited in the Court of Appeals, that this case can reach the Ohio Supreme Court in time for a decision before the summer recess. I urge that the case be expedited promptly and that all red tape be eliminated."

"After the questions involved are finally decided by the Ohio Supreme Court and if such decision is favorable to SUBs, our office will do whatever is appropriate and proper to administer the law in accordance with the decision of that court, promptly and in a considerate and efficient manner."

Toughie Plays Havoc In Chicago Cophouse

CHICAGO (AP)—Veteran Chicago police had a tough time with Carl Marts Friday night after he was picked up while wandering.

Taken to the police station, Marts ripped open drawers from filing cabinets and tore up messages on the police teletype machine. Marts also smeared chocolate ice cream on Sgt. Harry Lyons.

His mother reclaimed him. She said the 3½-year-old wandered to the street from the family home.

Murder Charge Faced By Hitchhiking Sailor

Harry W. Rainier, who became involved in a Cincinnati killing investigation when he was picked up while hitchhiking near Washington C. H. Feb. 13, today is facing a first degree murder charge.

A three-day whirlwind of events in the life of Rainier was climaxed Friday evening when Detective John Green filed formal charges against the 29-year-old sailor.

The former Cincinnati insurance salesman is accused of fatally stabbing Mrs. Margaret McAllister, 33, of Covington, Ky., in a room in the Ft. Washington Hotel the night of Feb. 10.

Rainier, who was brought back to Cincinnati from the Anacostia Navy Base near Washington, D. C., last Tuesday continued to maintain his innocence.

However, the murder charge was filed Friday evening at the conclusion of a series of lie detector tests.

Rainier, who had been questioned about the stabbing of Mrs. McAllister, was brought back into the investigation when he was picked up by Albert Stalter near here Feb. 13 while hitchhiking eastward to re-enlist in the Navy.

317,500 Awarded Ohioan in Suit

DETROIT (AP)—An Ohio father of four has been awarded $17,520 in damages by a U.S. District Court jury for injuries suffered in an automobile collision on a Michigan deer hunting trip in 1956.

Lindsay G. Goodman, 34, a Cleveland gasoline station mechanic, had asked $50,000 in the suit against Clarence Kruger, 35, of Ridgeway, Mich.

Goodman was thrown from a car in a collision with one driven by Kruger on Nov. 15, 1956, near Temperance, Mich. Witnesses testified Kruger, a laborer, ignored a stop sign.

Toledo Couple Fined In U.S. Tax Case

TOLEDO (AP)—A man and wife were fined $3,000 each and put on six months probation Friday after pleading guilty to federal income tax evasion.

U.S. Judge Frank L. Klobb also told Louis Linver, 51, and Doris Linver, 54, to start a new bookkeeping system at their National Waste Material Co.

The couple was charged with falsifying joint income tax returns for 1952 through 1956. They paid tax of $1,755 on a reported income of $19,650 during that period. The government said they should have paid tax of $10,183 on income of $55,195.

Hearing Set for GI Accused in Slaying

CINCINNATI (AP)—Arraignment is planned today for Harry W. Rainier, 29-year-old Navy man accused of first degree murder in the knife slaying of a Kentucky woman.

Police filed the charge Friday against Rainier after lie detector tests, but gave no indication what the tests showed.

Rainier is accused in the death of Mrs. Margaret McAllister, 33, of Covington, Ky., mother of four sons. She was found dead Feb. 10 in a downtown hotel room.

Greenfield Gas Rate Hike OK'd

GREENFIELD — The Dayton Power & Light Co. has been granted a 12 per cent rate increase for gas service to this village, it was reported here Saturday.

Reports indicated the Public Utilities Commission granted the increase on DP & L request for a 20 per cent increase.

Pat Shrock, editor of the Greenfield Times, said he understood the 12 per cent increase would give DP & L an approximate increase in revenue of $28,000 per year, contrasted to the $41,000 which would have been carried by the 20 per cent rates. Both estimates, he said, were based on present service.

The PUC ruled the order will not become effective until DP & L has filed a revised schedule with it. The decision was released late Friday, it was indicated. DP & L has supplied gas to Greenfield for many years, and is presently conferring with village authorities on the possibility of supplying electric power through the village's facilities at wholesale rates.

3 Ohioans Rap U. S. Diplomacy

Foreign Welfare Aid Said Too Impressive

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three Ohio trade unionists have attacked the State Department as being more interested in the welfare of foreign industries than in those at home.

The statements were made before the House Ways and Means Committee in protest against legislation to reduce further the tariffs of glassware and pottery.

Charles M. Scheff, president, and Harry H. Cook, president emeritus of the American Flint Glass Workers Union of North America, Toledo, said in a joint statement that foreign imports already are hurting the glass industry.

They continued: "We find it difficult to understand why the State Department should almost without exception support foreign producers and exporters against our own producers and workers."

"And why it is that the president nearly always listens to the State Department rather than the Tariff Commission?"

In a similar vein, E. L. Wheatley, president of the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters in East Liverpool, said pottery workers are in a "bad situation" because of foreign competition.

"The people who advocate such a (tariff reduction) program no doubt hold safe jobs, far from the front where the damage would be inflicted," Wheatley said.

No one says where unemployed pottery workers should go, he said, and added:

"In times when unemployment is already on the increase, it is clear that the unemployed would end up in the soup line."

Cadiz Sheriff Dies in Crash

CADIZ (AP)—The sheriff of Harrison County, Odie K. Yoho, 59, was killed today in a head-on collision on U. S. 22.

Deputies said it is uncertain whether he was killed from the impact of the collision or burned to death. Volunteer firemen from Cadiz freed him from the wreckage after putting out a fire which started in the cruiser.

One occupant of the other car was also killed. He was identified as Ronald E. Van Curen, 25, of Cadiz.

The accident happened at 3:14 a. m. Deputies said the southbound car which collided with the sheriff's cruiser may have gone out of control near a bridge on U. S. 22 about 3½ miles north of Cadiz.

French Intensify War in Algeria

PARIS (AP)—Despite deep-seated parliamentary discontent with France's Algerian policy, the National Assembly voted Friday night to intensify the war against the Algerian rebels.

On a vote of confidence in Premier Felix Gaillard's government, the Assembly approved 286-147 his revised military budget of more than $3 billion.

Only a few deputies besides the Communists were willing to go on record against the war budget but 160 deputies were absent or abstained, so the vote of approval was by a minority of the Assembly.

The new budget cuts $226 million from other military needs to increase spending in Algeria. Within the limits of a strained national budget, Gaillard told the deputies, "we are giving an absolute priority to the needs of pacification in Algeria." But, he said, there was no money available for transfer from nonmilitary budgets.

THE ADDITIONAL military funds will be used to add 28,000 troops to forces conducting the 40-month old war. The additions will bring to 375,000 soldiers the French ground force in Algeria, where another 125,000 airmen and sailors are stationed.

Gaillard asked the deputies to think beyond the simple question of military funds. He noted parliamentary uneasiness and said this might lead to a new governmental crisis by disrupting his shaky coalition.

"To assume the heavy responsibility which it has, my government cannot be content with a precarious or watered-down confidence of the Assembly," the 38-year-old premier said.

With an increasingly vocal minority of the Socialist party protesting support for any government which does not seek a negotiated settlement in Algeria, former Premier Guy Mollet barely managed to keep the 90 Socialist deputies in line. His argument was

Wadsworth Slayer Faces Life Term

MEDINA (AP)—Gary Dean Long, 21, of Wadsworth, has been convicted of second-degree murder for shooting to death the husband of a woman he had dated.

A jury of eight women and four men returned the guilty verdict late Friday night. The sentence automatically is life in prison.

The victim, Joseph Stewart, 35, was shot after he and Long had a fist fight at a Drive-In restaurant near Wadsworth Dec. 14. Long claimed the shooting was accidental.

At Least 25 Feared Lost As Military Planes Collide

NAHA, Okinawa (AP)—A U. S. Marine transport plane carrying 25 persons and a single-seat Marine fighter-bomber collided Friday night as they were preparing to land and plunged into the ocean as "a ball of fire."

Navy search parties recovered three bodies today and sighted other bodies amid debris and wreckage in the water three miles south of Naha.

U. S. ships and planes searching for possible survivors with the help of Okinawan police and fishermen were hampered by rough water and reefs.

The planes were an R4Q, the Marine version of the C119 Flying Boxcar, with 19 passengers and a crew of six, and an AD5 attack fighter-bomber. They were returning from Operation Strongback, a U. S.-Philippine amphibious maneuver in the Philippines.

The planes had taken off from Subic Bay, a U. S. Navy base west of Manila. The AD5, which cruises at about 300 miles an hour, apparently overtook the 200-mile-an-hour transport during the 850-mile flight to the U. S. Navy Air Station near Naha.

THE CONTROL tower operator said one of the planes radioed him shortly after dark. A few minutes later the operator "saw a flash in the sky," the Navy reported.

An Okinawan witness said he saw three distinct flashes. Other witnesses said they heard a terrific explosion and saw "a ball of fire" fall into the sea.

U. S. Navy craft and Army, Navy and Air Force planes immediately launched a search of the area. The heavy sea, a layer of mist and the darkness hampered them. Threatened storms held up Okinawan fishermen from the town of Itoman who volunteered to help.

Early today an Air Force helicopter made the first sighting of bodies and wreckage.

that this is no time to desert Gaillard, thus bringing him down and leaving France without leadership. Gaillard said he had hopes that the U. S.-British good offices mission could settle a dispute with Tunisia that arose from the French attack Feb. 8 on the Tunisian village of Sakiet Sidi Youssef.

Experiment Farm Near Here Now Is Possibility

'Great Convenience' To Fayette County Farmer, It Is Said

A new state agricultural experiment farm within 25 miles of Washington C. H. became a distinct possibility today following qualified approval of the purchase of 425 acres of the Kroger Farm near South Charleston Friday by the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station Board of Control at Wooster.

Indications are that the deal will be closed soon if soil tests show the land meets research requirements. The price will be $350 an acre. The General Assembly last year appropriated $150,000 for purchase of land for a western Ohio branch of the state Experiment Station.

Station Director L. L. Rummell was authorized to exercise the option on the land if the soil tests, to be made soon, are favorable. The tract is part of the 2,100-acre farm formerly owned by Henry Ford but now owned by the Kroger Co. family. It is located in Clark County on Route 70, about four miles north of South Charleston.

RESEARCH in crops and soils will be conducted at the farm along with a study of livestock, primarily hogs, it was said.

W. W. Montgomery, Fayette County's Agricultural Extension Service agent, said Saturday that a new experiment farm near South Charleston will be a "great convenience" to the farmer of Fayette County. In the future, he pointed out, farmers will need to go less than 25 miles for scientific information and help; in the past they have had to go to Wooster, 140 miles away.

The only thing better, he commented, "would be to have it in Fayette County." He pointed out, in this connection that Fayette County is the leading hog producing county in Ohio.

The hearings are in recess until Monday when Kennedy said the committee hopes to complete its questioning of Emil Mazey, the UAW's secretary-treasurer.

Kennedy said some 40 witnesses are on tap for questioning about the union's boycott against Kohler products.

In Friday's session, Mazey of Retiring Ohio Dem Needles GOP Boss

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. Rep. Wayne L. Hays, an Ohio Democrat who plans to retire, says he is happy Ohio Republican chairman Ray Bliss predicts the GOP will fill the vacancy.

"That makes me feel good," Hays said Friday. "He (Bliss) has said that ever since he has been Ohio chairman, and he has been wrong every time."

A sounding out of Ohio Republicans in Congress indicates they share Bliss's confidence, despite an employment sag in Ohio's industrial areas. Republicans consider the unemployment only temporary.

Goldwater-Reuther Clash Delayed in Senate Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—A face-to-face showdown between Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.) and Walter Reuther (D-Mich.) over a growing number of witnesses in a Senate probe of violence in the Kohler Co. strike.

Reuther is president of the United Auto Workers which for nearly four years has been on strike against the Wisconsin manufacturer of bathroom fixtures.

Goldwater is a member of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee which is trying to determine responsibility for beatings, bombings and other violence during the long strike.

The two are longtime foes and have called each other cowards in recent public statements. Sparks are almost certain to fly when they face each other.

Robert F. Kennedy, the committee's chief counsel, said that it might be the end of next week before Reuther is called to testify.

BUT JOHN J. McGovern, counsel to Republican members of the group, indicated it might not be that soon. McGovern said the committee now has more witnesses on call than it had at the start of the hearings on Feb. 26.

Reuther has accused Goldwater of bringing about the committee's investigation of the strike to "smear a clean union." Goldwater contends the evidence will show the UAW imported "thugs and goons" from Michigan to Kohler, Wis., to help out in violence against nonstrikers.

WHEN SETTLEMENT of the strike finally came, the new contract left the firings of the 17 union members to arbitration. Municipal Judge W. Dexter Hazen of Marion; Ronald W. Houghton of Grosse Pointe, Mich., an economics professor at Wayne University, and D. Emmett Ferguson, Lafayette, Ind., attorney, took over the task of arbitration.

A long series of hearings was held with both the company and the union, and the workers involved, giving testimony. The seven whose discharges were sustained by the arbitrators were William Hipple, Pansy Smith, David Bartlett, Norman Bush, Juanita Conley, Janet Ward and Ruth Beadle.

The five reinstated with full pay and seniority rights are Harry Ervin, Frank R. Born Jr., Russell Lewis, Virginia Adams and Juanita Adams.

Two employees reinstated minus one month's wages are Emanuel Pickel and William Stahler. The three reinstated with full seniority but no back pay are Lewis Gregory, Russell Cook and Robert Johnson.

The back pay in all the cases dates from Feb. 27, 1957, date of the strike settlement.

With the exception of Virginia and Juanita Adams, whose addresses are listed as Circleville, all the others are residents of the Portsmouth area.

Idle List Said To Have Topped 5 Million Total

Senate Leader Reports Plans for Shift in Defense Area Spending

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration and the Democratic-controlled Congress pushed job-creation actions today amid reports that unemployment shot up last month to more than 5,100,000.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Democratic leader, announced Friday he will seek swift Senate action on housing, highway, education and other bills. He called them "major measures in providing jobs."

Johnson made public a letter saying the Defense Department is looking into the matter of speeding up military construction projects in areas with relatively high unemployment.

"I think we can pick up some 200,000 to 500,000 jobs by government projects," Johnson said, adding this should have a "good psychological effect upon the country."

Informed officials said the government will announce next Tuesday that joblessness rose by more than 600,000 in February to a 16-year peak of more than 5,100,000.

LAST MONTH'S total apparently was between 6½ and 7 per cent of the nation's civilian labor force. Johnson estimates there now are between five million and six million unemployed.

It was noted that the February figures were gathered in the second week of the month when much of the nation was plagued by storms and intense cold, curtailing some outdoor operations.

Meanwhile, the Labor Department released statistics that indicated unemployment continued to rise after mid-February, although at a reduced rate.

The department's Bureau of Employment Security said joblessness among workers covered by the unemployment compensation system rose by 137,800 to a record 3,268,000 in the week ended Feb. 22.

In the previous week, ended Feb. 15, the total of joblessness among covered workers had increased by 158,500. About two-thirds of all workers come under the unemployment compensation system.

Also, the Labor Department said initial claims for jobless benefits, indicating new layoffs, declined by 23,300 to 435,900 for the week ended March 1.

Unemployment generally drops in March with a seasonal stepup in such outdoor occupations as farming and construction.

PRESIDENT Eisenhower and his advisers were pictured as counting on a decrease in unemployment this month. They contend consideration of any emergency moves should await the March employment figures, due out a month from now.

The letter Johnson released on Defense Department plans to speed military construction projects came from Deputy Secretary Quarles.

Quarles said there are $450 million worth of projects that can be started in areas of "substantial" unemployment and that these are being "initiated as expeditiously as possible." He indicated, however, any speedup on projects already under way will have to be done without increasing government costs.

Quarles said the awarding of contracts for military purchasing and construction has been stepped up 50 per cent above the rate of the last six months of 1957.

"This substantial increase during the months ahead will unquestionably provide a desirable impetus to the economy," he added.

Meat-Type Hogs Claim Attention

Improvement Shown In Carcass Contest

COLUMBUS—A 215-pound Hampshire hog won grand championship honors for its Centerville farm boy owner at the Ohio Spring Barrow Carcass contest in Troy.

The carcass of Bob Rudrick's barrow topped more than 100 which competed in the contest, held at the Braun Brothers packing plant. Entries included champions of the recent spring barrow show, plus others nominated by show exhibitors. The carcasses were rated according to their cut-out value.

Rudrick's animal had a dressing percentage of 74.9 and a primal cut yield of 52.9 per cent. Its cut-out value was rated at $23.54 a hundredweight.

Rudrick, an FFA youth, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rudrick of near Centerville. He received the grand championship trophy from George W. Owen, representing the Farm Bureau Cooperative association.

EARL MILLER of Millermeade Farm, Georgetown, owned the reserve champion carcass, a Yorkshire which had placed seventh in its class at London. Its cut-out value was $23.36 a hundredweight.

The carcass of a Hampshire entered by Beverly Kelly of Hillsboro placed third. The barrow had placed seventh in its class at London. The grand champion at the barrow show, a Hampshire entry of Floyd Jackson, ranked 26th in the carcass contest. The carcass of the barrow show's reserve champion, a crossbred shown by L. S. Overturf of London, placed seventh.

Winners in the barrow show's judging contest were: adult division, E. Ivor Jones, associate county extension agent, of Ross County; junior division, Paul Wright, animal science student at The Ohio State University. They most nearly ranked barrow show champions in the order of carcass cut-out value. Both received plaques from the Ohio Swine Improvement.

As an indication of the rising or lean meat qualities brought about by improved breeding, Herbert Barnes, Ohio State University extension swine specialist, said 48 per cent of the hogs in this year's carcass show had pork chop muscle measurements of four square inches or more. This compares with 30 per cent of the carcasses in last year's show.

Tobacco Growers Sign Up for Funds

COLUMBUS—Ohio tobacco farmers are rapidly draining the state's 1958 tobacco acreage funds, with heavy signups reported in most tobacco-producing counties. Under the program the federal government pays farmers for taking tobacco land out of production.

Signups for the 1958 tobacco acreage reserve began Feb. 3, and the deadline is March 8.

Three of the nine eligible counties growing cigar filler tobacco already are out of funds, according to Wallace Barr, Ohio State University extension economist. The 50 cigar-filler producers, who have signed acreage reserve agreements, have placed practically all of their allotments in acreage reserve, Barr says.

Of the 34 eligible counties growing burley tobacco, three are out of funds. The 207 burley tobacco producers, who have signed agreements, have placed nearly 98 per cent of their allotments in the reserve program.

Ohio's allocation for burley tobacco acreage reserve payments is $248,000 and for cigar filler payments, $75,000.

Changes Made In Hay-Making

COLUMBUS—New machinery and harvesting methods have reduced the labor of handling Ohio's hay crop from 2.6 man hours per ton to two man hours in the last decade, says D. M. Byg, Ohio State University extension agricultural engineer. This represents a decrease of 23 per cent.

Ohio farmers have experienced a great change in hay making methods in recent years. Byg points out. In the middle forties, 76 per cent of the farmers made loose hay, 23 per cent baled hay and 1 per cent chopped hay. More recent figures show 82 per cent of the farmers making baled hay, 9 per cent chopped hay and 9 per cent loose hay.

Byg predicts this reduction in hay making labor will continue. The field chopper with self-unloading wagons and elevator or blower for placing the hay in storage on a hay drier can reduce the labor to 1.1 man hours per ton and also insure a high quality product, the engineer points out.

Engineers estimate that 30 per cent of Ohio's total hay crop is lost during harvesting and storage, due to weathering, shattering and storage losses. This represents a loss in feed of more than 30 million dollars annually.

Farm Bureau For Soil Bank Continuation

COLUMBUS—Continued use of the soil bank as a sound method of reducing farm surpluses will be urged by Ohio Farm Bureau congressional spokesmen when they meet with their congressmen and senators in Washington, D. C. on March 17-19.

At a meeting of the Farm Bureau board of trustees here last week a strong statement was drawn up, asking for continued use of the soil bank with major emphasis on conservation.

H. D. Heckathorn, Forest, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, said, "We are concerned by the fact that USDA soil bank funds for Ohio are already exhausted and thousands of farmers are being turned down when they make applications at local ASC offices."

Farm Bureau Congressional spokesmen now have been selected in most Congressional districts. Heckathorn indicated. These men and women will report on farm thinking in conferences scheduled with their congressmen on March 18. In addition to the farm program, the Ohio farmers will urge renewal of the reciprocal trade agreements, continued foreign aid and adequate defense.

A company in the group to Washington will be the legislative committee of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation. They are: Arnold Keller, Elyria; Rowland Bishop, Milford Center; Golden Canaday, Northup; Lewis Hay, Lockbourne; James Lewis, Hamilton; Ferris Owen, Newark; Sumner Palmer, Napoleon; L. F. Warbington, Sidney; and Mrs. W. A. Smith, Hillsboro.

Community Problems Given Top Billing

COLUMBUS—Problems which face families and communities as Ohio grows in population and industrial might will get top billing at Farm and Home Week's "Farm-Home-Community Day" March 26 on the Ohio State University campus.

General sessions are scheduled for Campbell Hall auditorium. Maurice Wieting, vice president of information and education, Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, will serve as moderator for a symposium on the topic "Is Your

Home Economics Program Set Up

Talks by Specialists To Cover Wide Field

COLUMBUS—The forty-ninth annual Farm and Home Week, March 25, 26 and 27 on the Ohio State University campus, will offer phases of home economics of interest to both men and women, reports Lea Whitfield, state leader of home economics extension.

Tuesday, March 25, is Rural-Urban Day. There is an all day program in Mershon Auditorium and the afternoon program, especially for homemakers, emphasizes food buying and nutrition.

The main speaker is Dr. J. B. Brown, chairman of the Institute of Food Technology, Ohio State University. Dr. Brown is an authority on fat in the diet and will answer many of the questions the women asked at last year's Farm and Home Week. He will speak at 1 p. m. in Mershon.

Following Dr. Brown will be two demonstrations. One feature is "Know Quality in Processed Foods" to be presented by Dr. Wilbur Gould, professor in the division of horticultural products, and Irene Netz, Ohio State University extension nutritionist. This feature is to help the homemaker select processed foods (both canned and frozen) and to know quality in what she buys.

THE SECOND demonstration "Know Quality in Meat and Poultry" will be presented by three extension specialists, Bob Havener (meats), Paul Clayton (poultry), and Pauline Gruner (nutrition).

Following these features there will be exhibits in the Mershon lobby. Ohio State staff members will be there to answer food buying questions.

The home economics program March 26 relates to community and family living. The speakers will be family life and child development specialists, a agricultural economist, and a family economics specialists—each concerned with community development. Both rural and urban men and women are invited.

"Automation in the Home" is the home economics theme for the last day of Farm and Home Week, according to Mrs. Whitfield. The exhibits of household equipment in Campbell Hall are "Automation in the Kitchen" and "Providing for Today's Automatic Equipment for the Home." Clarice Bloom and Ruth Beard will be in the equipment laboratories to answer questions.

A special event of interest during Farm and Home Week is the Ohio canned foods display 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. daily in the Horticulture and Forestry building.

The School of Home Economics will have open house 11:30 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. and 3 to 4 p. m. daily in Campbell Hall, with exhibits promoting "Better Living Through Home Economics."

Career information will be available for parents and counselors in Campbell Hall during open house.

Community Ready for Tomorrow?

Others who will participate are Robert L. Wolf of the Ohio Power Co. Mervin G. Smith, chairman of Ohio State University's department of agricultural economics and rural sociology; E. E. Holt, superintendent of Ohio public schools and Esther McGinnis, school of home economics, Ohio State University.

In the afternoon, speakers in Campbell Hall will consider potentials for growth in educational programs, community planning and family living.

In other buildings on the campus speakers will discuss topics in fields of agricultural economics and rural sociology, agricultural engineering, agronomy, animal science, beekeeping, dairy science, horticulture and poultry science.

More than 900 Ohio 4-H club advisors will be honored at a noon recognition luncheon in the Ohio Union. Four dairymen and eight dairy herd improvement supervisors will receive awards for outstanding work at a recognition banquet at 6:30 in Pomerene Hall.

Allocation for Fayette County Not Enough

Farmers To Get $273,738 For Corn Land in Soil Bank

Fayette County farmers are going into the soil bank's 1958 corn acreage reserve in a big way, figures just released by the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) committee show.

Already 191 contracts have been signed to place 4,407.6 acres in the corn reserve. Farmers will get $273,738.65 for taking this corn land out of production this year, the ASC office calculates.

This was virtually all of the $273,743 allocated to Fayette County for corn reserve payments—but it was not nearly enough.

The ASC office here has requests on file that would take an additional $30,089.16 in the event that Congress appropriates more money for payments. If the money is available, it was said, the applications will be approved.

MEANWHILE, the ASC office here announced that the U. S. Department of Agriculture has extended to March 28 the deadline by which farmers who have made applications for participation in the 1958 corn acreage reserve may cancel them. The previous deadline was Feb. 20.

The present corn sign-up would require payments in excess of the soil bank act limitation, which restricts corn acreage reserve payments to $300 million. All offerings of corn acreage as reported from state ASC offices would require total payments of $313 million. It is expected that extension of the deadline for cancellations will result in a reduction of total requests for participation in the program.

Final date for farmers to sign 1958 acreage reserve agreements for corn is Feb. 20, but by Feb. 7, a total of 62 counties had exhausted their funds and had placed thousands of farmers on the "waiting list," said Wallace Barr, Ohio State University extension economist.

OHIO'S TOTAL allocation for this corn acreage reserve is $13,126,800. Payments to farmers already signed for the program amount to $11,161,975. Total amount needed to fulfill signed agreements and requests in excess of the counties' allocations would require $18,674,625. Under the program the federal government pays farmers for taking corn land out of production. The average payment per acre is calculated at $56.42.

Counties have been distributing their funds on a "first come, first served" basis. In order to fulfill all requests, considerable additional money would be necessary, Barr noted. He added funds, he says, would have to come from (1) a transfer of funds from other states not using all of their allocations; (2) transfer of money from funds specified for other commodities but not fully utilized; (3) additional appropriations from Congress.

The possibility of getting more money from any of these sources is remote, Barr said.

The corn acreage reserve sign-up this year has been heavier in Ohio than most observers generally expected. Barr said this may be due to wet weather, lower yields and harvesting problems in certain areas last year. Farmers are getting into the program to reduce income risks in 1958.

Econogram for Farmers

EDITOR'S NOTE: These news highlights in economics and public affairs relating to agriculture are summarized by agricultural extension economists at Ohio State University.

Unemployment in Ohio (those covered by the Bureau of Unemployment compensation) reached 190,344 in week ended Feb. 15. Last year at same time it was 71,621. U. S. has total employment of about 4.9 million of which 3.1 million are covered by Bureau of Unemployment Compensation. Ohio claimants currently are concentrated in big-city areas in manufacturing industries. Comparative high rates also reported in some smaller cities. Eligible Ohio claimants averaged $33.60 per week in January.

WHEAT AND FLOUR purchase authorizations to importing countries under PL 480 program (Title 1) in mid-February totaled $900 million or about 505 million bushel of wheat equivalent. Largest outstanding authorizations are India, 750,000 bushel; Yugoslavia, 600,000 bushel; Pakistan, 585,000 bushel; Korea, 400,000 bushel; Turkey, 250,000 bushel; Israel, 122,000 and Greece, 81,200 bushel.

FINAL CORN acreage reserve sign-up in Ohio shows 14,908 filed agreements. These agreements are for 218,192 acres out of a corn allotment of 239,612 acres on the field agreements. The average acreage reserve area on filed agreements is 14.6 acres. The acreage reserve waiting list includes 14,389 requests for an estimated 173,239 acres. This is 12 acres per request. The allocation of funds was exceeded in 69 out of 71 commercial corn counties. House has voted to increase acreage reserve funds by $250 million. Senate will need to act before funds are available.

TOBACCO ACREAGE reserve: Cigar filler tobacco sign-up has exceeded the allocation of funds in four out of nine counties as of Feb. 24. Burley tobacco sign-up has exceeded the funds in six out of 34 eligible counties.

CATTLE ON FARMS and ranches Jan. 1 totaled close to 94 million head, only 535,000 below total on Jan. 1. The decline that began two years ago appears to be leveling off.

Number of heifers and calves up to two years old were slightly more than last year. Older cows and calves showed a decline of 2 per cent which will probably result in a smaller 1958 calf crop.

CATTLE ON FARMS in Ohio on Jan. 1 were 3 per cent below year earlier (compared with 1 per cent drop in U. S.). Number of milk cows and heifers, 2 years and older dropped 4 per cent in Ohio (U. S. down 2 per cent). Number of hogs and pigs on farms in Ohio down 3 per cent (U. S. same as year ago). Sheep and lamb numbers in Ohio up 2 per cent from year ago (U. S. number also up 2 per cent).

CALF MARKETINGS decline as farmers rebuild their herds. Veal calves are bringing the highest prices in six years. Veal calves slaughtered for week ending February 15 was 27 per cent less than a year ago.

Rose Fanciers To Hold Rally

COLUMBUS—Rose fanciers who attend Farm and Home Week on The Ohio State University campus may glean some timely ideas they can use in their home gardens this year.

University horticulturists have scheduled a Rose Rally at 8 p. m. March 26 in University Hall. Jack Siebenthaler, Dayton nurseryman, will top a list of speakers appearing at the rally. He will discuss the use of roses in landscape design, illustrating his talk with some colored slides.

Another feature of the rally will be a clinic in which a panel of rose authorities will answer questions from the audience. L. C. Chadwick, professor of horticulture at Ohio State, will serve as moderator.

A greenhouse display of new ornamental plants for the home and garden will be another highlight for home gardeners. Visitors may see the display at 3 p. m. March 25 and 26 and at 2 p. m. March 27.

More Money Needed For Ohio Soil Bank

COLUMBUS—Ohio needs more than 9 million dollars in additional soil bank funds to fulfill the requests of farmers who want to sign up for the corn acreage reserve program.

The deadline for sign-up, which closed Feb. 20, left 14,389 farmers on the waiting list, according to Wallace Barr, Ohio State University extension economist. These farmers seek to put an estimated 173,239 acres in corn acreage reserve. In order to pay them for taking this land out of production, an additional allocation of $9,772,534 would be necessary, Barr says. Sixty-nine of the 71 counties eligible for corn acreage reserve funds exceeded their allocations.

The state already has committed more than $12,720,000 in corn acreage reserve funds to approximately 14,900 farmers who have signed agreements. The farmers placed 218,192 acres, or about 91 per cent of their 239,612-acre allotment, in the reserve program.

Now Is Time Production of Eggs Near Peak

The Lenten season, with accompanying changes in the diets of many people, comes at a time when the egg supplies from American poultry farms begin climbing toward the seasonal peak.

By early spring the hens that began laying in early fall are producing large eggs, weighing 24 ounces or more per dozen.

In the early stages of production hens produce smaller eggs. The egg trade recognizes four sizes: Extra large eggs weighing 27 ounces per dozen; large eggs, 24 ounces; medium eggs, 21 ounces, and small eggs, 18 ounces.

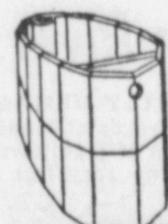

In taking recipes these variations in egg sizes may be taken into account by using this formula: four large eggs equal five medium eggs or six small eggs or one cup measure.

More important in buying eggs is the interior quality. Here one may be sure of buying wisely by observing the grade labels on egg packages.

THE MOST reliable grading is done under federal-state inspection. All eggs graded for interior quality under this inspection will bear a label in the shape of a shield with U. S. Grade and a letter, either A, B or C. Grade A eggs are best for serving on the table, cooked in the shell, poached or "sunny side up."

To preserve the quality in eggs retail stores display eggs in refrigerated cases. Eggs stored in the home refrigerator will keep their good quality until used. The air cell in an egg is at the large end and to keep this air cell unbroken store eggs in cartons with the small ends down.

Farm-Urban Day Program Varied

Morning, Afternoon Sessions Planned

COLUMBUS — Rural-Urban day at Farm and Home Week will bring farmers and businessmen to Ohio State University campus March 25 to consider some of the problems involved in adequately feeding the nation. Headline speaker of the day will be Ezra Benson, secretary of agriculture.

A general session in Merston Auditorium will get underway at 10 a. m. with Carroll Bottom, professor in the department of agricultural economics at Purdue University, speaking on the subject "Economics of Feeding Our Nation."

E. J. Nesius, associate director of the Agricultural Extension Service, University of Kentucky, will discuss "Education for Feeding the United States." W. B. Wood, Ohio extension director, will preside at the morning session.

Farmers and businessmen will lunch together in the Ohio Union where they will honor farm account record keepers and outstanding young farmers. Secretary Benson is scheduled to speak at this luncheon.

THE AFTERNOON session in Merston Auditorium will offer some pointers on recognizing quality foods. Speakers will discuss such subjects as fat in the diet and quality in processed foods, meat and poultry.

Elsewhere on the campus numerous sessions on a wide variety of subjects will be in progress.

In the agricultural administration building at 3 p. m., a panel of specialists will discuss vertical integration. In Ives Hall agricultural engineers will conduct sessions throughout the day. They will discuss such subjects as structural and equipment problems of swine and poultry production, testing farm drain tile, lubricants and lubrication, water supplies for the farm, new corn harvesting methods and sewage disposal on the farm. They will offer clinics in house remodeling, hay and grain storage and welding.

Afternoon programs are scheduled by the agronomy, horticulture and poultry science departments.

Agronomists in Townshend Hall will talk about lawn care and the extent of danger from atomic fallout.

Horticulturists in the Horticulture and Forestry Building, will discuss ways to grow quality tomatoes in the home garden and new ornamental plants for the home and garden.

In the Poultry Science Building visitors may hear talks on poultry diseases and see a movie on caged layer operations.

Beekeeping Problems Up for Discussion

COLUMBUS — Problems of the amateur beekeeper will get major attention in a Farm and Home Week program for beekeepers March 26 on The Ohio State University campus.

Sessions will be held in the Botany and Zoology building beginning at 9 a. m.

A. R. Dean of Pittsburgh, Pa., past president of the Eastern Apicultural Society, will discuss "Trials and Tribulations of the Amateur Beekeeper."

John Buchanan, beekeeper of Pittsburgh, Pa., and M. J. Deyell, editor of Gleanings in Bee Culture, Medina, will lead a discussion on how beekeepers can interest youth in the business. W. E. Dunham of Ohio State University and E. W. Long, beekeeper of St. Paris, will talk about management of hybrid queen bees.

Charles A. Reese, Ohio State University extension specialist in apiculture, will direct a question and answer period at the close of the afternoon session.

Unlikely Story Told By Man Found in Bar

LITTLETON, Colo. (AP) — When a 20-year-old man was found hiding behind the bar in a locked tavern, he explained: "I'm supposed to clean up the place."

But the persons he told this to were a man and wife hired for that very purpose. A district court judge put on probation for three years.

Ohio To Begin Tree Delivery On March 12

COLUMBUS — Statewide truck delivery of forest trees from the Ohio Division of Forestry nurseries will begin March 12, according to an announcement by Ernest Gebhart, forester in charge of reforestation.

State highway garages throughout the state will be the delivery points where cooperators may pick up their trees.

Delivery dates for trees in the southern quarter of the state are March 12, 13 and 14; the south central section, March 19, 20 and 21; north central, April 2, 3 and 4; and the northern zone, April 9, 10 and 11. Each cooperator will be notified by the producing nursery to call for his trees after 1 p. m.

Forestry officials pointed out that while no additional orders can be accepted for truck delivery, some varieties of trees are still available and can be shipped by parcel post collect, or picked up at the state nurseries. Some windbreak stock is still available, but applications must be approved by the farm forester before being submitted.

The Division of Forestry has received 2,400 orders to date for 13,500,000 trees and there still remain some 4,000,000 trees of various species which can be purchased. The stock of white pine and Norway spruce is exhausted but ample supplies of red pine, loblolly pine, and Virginia pine, suitable for planting in southern Ohio, are available.

Some hardwoods, including white ash, black locust, sugar maple, tulip tree, black walnut and others, may also be secured.

Automation of Farm Topic for Discussion

COLUMBUS — C. R. (Cap) Arnold, farmer of near Hilliard, and former governor of the Farm Credit Administration, will head a list of Farm and Home Week speakers appearing on the "Automation in Agriculture" day program March 27 at The Ohio State University.

Arnold will speak at a general session scheduled for Plumb Hall at 1 p. m. He will discuss the impact of mechanization and automation on the farm family.

The former Farm Credit Administration chief also will serve on a panel which will air the topic "Contract Farming and Mechanization." Other panel members will include Kenneth Aeschliman, farmer and feed handler of Archbold; Theron Johnson, farmer of Racine and John H. Sitterly, agricultural economist and R. C. Miller, agricultural engineer of Ohio State.

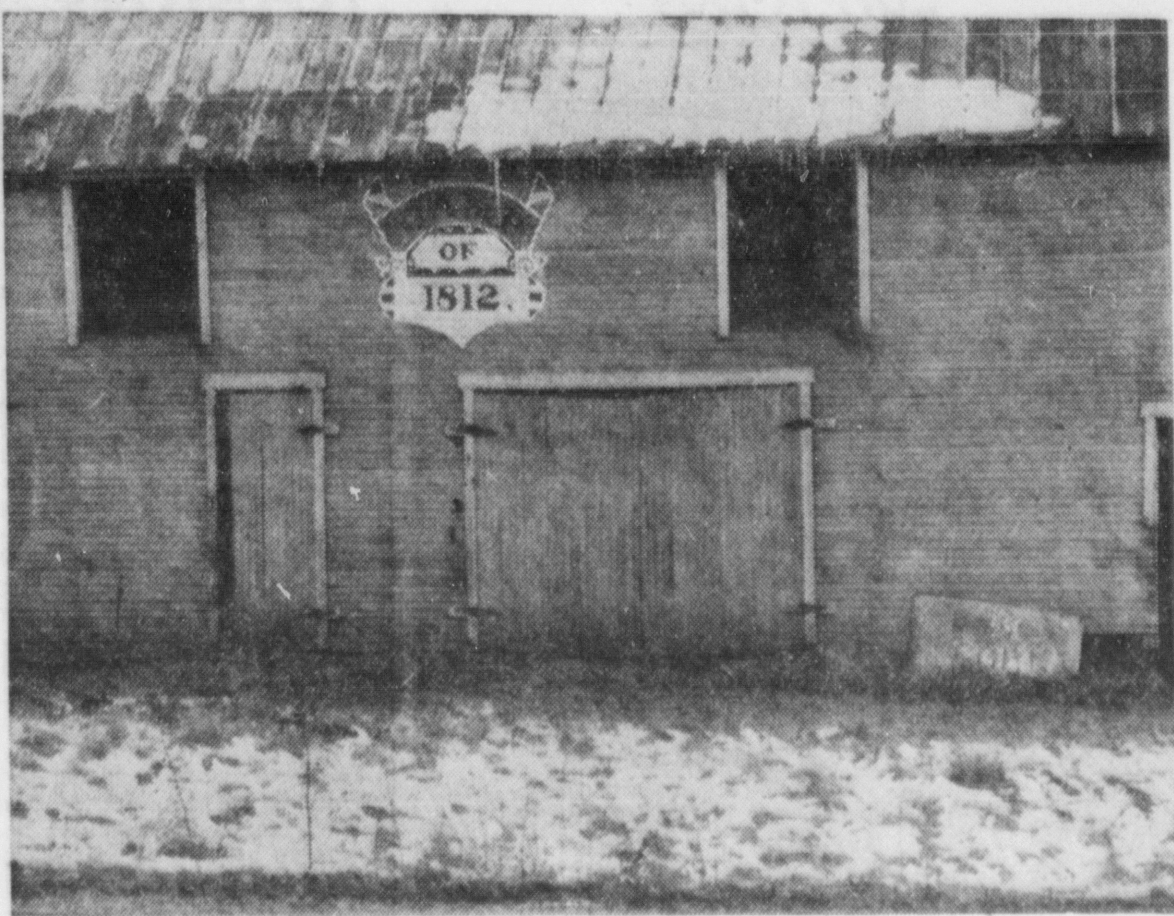

Several departmental programs also will feature discussions on the subject of automation and its possible effect on the future of agriculture. Agricultural economists will present the agricultural outlook for 1958 and discuss what farming may be like in 1975. Engineers will consider automation in beef production and corn harvesting and its influence on machinery costs. Animal science specialists will talk about automation in livestock feeding. A panel of farmers will tell of their experiences with self feeding, silage unloaders, grinding feed, feed pelleting, pig parlors and feed handling in the production of lambs, hogs and beef cattle.

Milk Producers To Meet in Dayton

Members of the Miami Valley Milk Producers Assn., will hold their annual all-member meeting Tuesday, in the Dayton Biltmore Hotel.

Norton, secretary of the National Milk Producers Federation, Washington, D. C. There will be musical entertainment by the Farrell Sisters from Chicago and comedy entertainment by Bill King.

General Manager-Treasurer Leslie C. Mapp will make the association's annual report during the business meeting. His discussion will include the market outlook for the dairy farmers in the production area covering 28 counties in western Ohio and eastern Indiana. Activities for the members and guests will start with a luncheon to be served at 11:30 a. m.

BOWS TO PROGRESS—Historic "Camp of 1812" on Route 35, in Jackson County, is to be wiped out by a highway change. It was the site where a company of soldiers was trained to later join Commodore Perry on Lake Erie. (Photo by Engineer Gerald McKeever, State Highway Dept.)

Progress Dooms 'Camp of 1812'

Many Fayette countians who have driven over Route 35 in Jackson County have noticed an old barn standing near the west side of the road, eight miles northwest of Jackson, bearing the inscription "Camp of 1812".

Now the famous "Camp of 1812" is to be obliterated by changing Route 35 at that point.

Time and progress march along hand in hand and, to the casual observer, often trample underfoot the landmarks of yesteryears—today's heritages—and in this case another highway is born.

The following information comes from Ernie Orman, Chillicothe, of the publicity department, Division 9, State Highway Department.

The old barn with the inscription on it is on what is known as the Mary E. Brohard farm.

THIS HISTORIC SITE lies within the right-of-way or the newly located Route 35 section of 6.43 miles, extending westwardly from a point 2.9 miles west of Jackson.

This sector is the first of two projects on this route, the second section of which is to be sold this spring, covering the remaining western section of 6.73 miles—some of which will be over four-lanes—taking the entire improvement to the railroad underpass west of Richmond Dale in Ross County.

With the knowledge, that this structure will soon be razed to make way for the contractors, the old barn has become the camera target for many shutterbugs and those interested in preserving records of Jackson County's illustrious past.

And thereby hangs a tale:

Thanks to the personal and academic interest of Mrs. Romaine Aten Jones, Jackson, and aided by the notes left by her late husband, Judge Benner Jones, the story of "Camp of 1812" is preserved in her publication "Early Jackson", a volume published in 1942 that contains a wealth of information and data of this interesting and enterprising community.

Under the caption "The Wars," this account on "Camp of 1812" is given:

"JACKSON sent a company of men to the War of 1812 and for a short time General Edward M. Tupper of Gallia County, and his army of young men from Virginia, Kentucky and Ohio had a camp called to this day the 'Camp of 1812' on the farm of John Stinson, father of Mrs. Mark Sternberger, on the Chillicothe Pike. They were on their way to join Commodore Perry on Lake Erie.

"There was a huge boulder that had rolled down from the hill, no doubt centuries ago, and lodged by the roadside. It was about 50 feet long, 15 feet thick and 20 feet in height. The road has always passed between the rock and the hill. Those poor, lonesome boys spent their time of waiting to march on, by carving their names or initials on that rock.

"The names were still legible one hundred years later when Mr. Williams copied them, and printed them in the Standard-Journal.

"A few years ago, some unseasonable road contractor blasted away the greater part of the stone to make the abutments of a bridge some half a mile away and the names were effaced. Shame! It should have had a bronze tablet on it!"

And that is the available story on "Camp of 1812", the last reminder of which will be erased with the razing of the structure in the near future. . . but mayhap the sign will be removed by present day historians and preserved as a memento of early days by some individual or organized group.

People . . . Places . . . and Things

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY
I am still wondering what offense was committed by an English sparrow which found himself suddenly beset on all sides by four or five other sparrows who showed their anger by their excited chirps and sharp blows they administered with their beaks while the offender fought back as best he could.

This happened on the roof over the mechanical department of the Record-Herald, as I stood looking out a window.

The battle against the bird that had violated some specific and sacred sparrow law, did not last long, as the chirping, pecking, struggling birds swarmed about the guilty one and really gave him a going-over.

Finally the badly mauled sparrow sought safety in flight through the branches of a nearby tree, and vanished, while the other birds, still jabbering in anger and excitement, flew in the opposite direction.

I could not help but wonder if the offending sparrow had not only insulted one of his kind, but had incurred the anger of all of the others, possibly by stealing their food, making love to another sparrow's sweetheart, or possibly having become angry and took a peck at one of his companions, who said, "Come on fellows, let's teach him a lesson!" They did just that.

SEPARATOR 80 YEARS OLD

A great many farm homes in this community formerly had a DeLaval cream separator as part of their equipment for obtaining cream and making butter.

After making butter at home virtually ceased years ago, many of these separators were set back and allowed to rust. The larger types are highly important equipment in every creamery plant.

It has been 80 years since Carl Gustaf Patrick DeLaval, Swedish engineer, invented a cream separator, and essentially the same machine is still in general use throughout the world.

This cream separator makes possible the butter, cheese, ice cream and other dairy products we use today.

It was in 1877 that DeLaval, then 32 years of age, read of a German invention for skimming cream.

He took this as a challenge, resigned his position with an industrial firm, and moved to Stockholm, where he borrowed a French-made centrifugal dryer from a candle factory and started to work.

A year later he produced the first separator with a machine that processed 139 quarts of milk an hour without stopping to add more milk or remove the separated cream.

First of the separator: In America was used by the Darlington C. Mery, of Delaware County, Pa.

In all, De Laval was granted 92 patents in Sweden for various inventions, but his cream separator was the most important of all.

THOSE COMB CASES

Another thing we rarely see anymore, are the old comb cases suspended from a nail in the wall, which contained one or two combs for general use in the home.

Invariably one of these comb cases was located near every wash basin, or at some convenient spot, frequently on the back porch, where it could be easily reached.

Some of these old cases were made of metal, with a small mirror in them, and frequently the cases were of tin.

The early comb cases in use in the county were home-made of wood, and some of these were real works of art, as they were carved from walnut or cherry wood. Real skill was reflected in most of them.

ATTORNEYS IN 1886

A copy of the Fayette Republican of Nov. 26, 1886, which was edited by T. F. Gardner and was nine columns in width and nearly three feet in length, contains the advertisements of most of the attorneys engaged in practice of law at that time.

They were: Maynard and Maynard, Hidy and Patton, Worthington and Marchant, Nye Gregg, H. M. Daugherty, Humphrey Jones and Mills Gardner, the latter two being in the same office.

OWLS HIGH LIVERS

Some monkey-faced owls seem to have taken up their abode on top of the Co-Op Grain Elevator on S. Fayette St., where their squawks and squeals may be heard late in the night, as well as the flapping of their wings as they leave or return to their home in the highest point in the city.

It is safe to say that as long as the monkey-faced owls have a home on top of the elevator, there will be no rats or mice making their home about the place.

SAFETY IN SANCTUARY

I know some of you folks who lived in horse- and - buggy days recall seeing some of your neighbors (and probably have done the same thing yourself) carry "lap robes" and buggy whips into a church at night to prevent them from being stolen while services were under way.

The robes and whips were usually dropped on the floor in a rear corner of the church, or, if classrooms were near the entrance, or there was a hallway, then the robes and whips were placed in these to insure the owner still having them after services were over.

The stealing of buggy whips and robes, as well as horse blankets, under cover of darkness used to be one of the drawbacks to horse-and-buggy days, so the owners played safe by taking them into the church each time they attended night services.

Frost Damaging Roads in State

COLUMBUS (AP) — Frost damage is causing roads throughout the state to break up faster than repair crews can patch them. Ohio Department of Highways maintenance engineers report.

"We will have every available patching crew out trying to patch as fast as breaks show up," said Highway Chief Charles M. Noble. "But it is somewhat doubtful that we will be able to keep up with the developing damage in all cases."

Permanent repairs are not possible until all the frost is out of the ground and the earth begins to dry out, Noble said.

Grow-little pigs-grow...

Young pigs will grow and grow as pigs never grow before if they are fed

NEW Red Rose PIG STARTER PELLETS

— With or Without HYGROMIX —

Creep feed these vitamin packed pellets to young pigs at 5 days of age. Your pigs will reach early weaning at 4 or 5 weeks, maintain rapid growth — and soon be on their profit way to pork chops.

RED ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS help to grow young pigs in a hurry for this reason: they supplement the sow's milk, and supply additional vitamins and antibiotics which permit the litter to be weaned earlier without setbacks in growth. The high antibiotics and vitamin levels in RED ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS help prevent scouring, insure against anemia and develop vigor.

Pigs fed RED ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS grow more uniformly and reach market weights earlier. So, feed these pellets to your pigs. Remember, better pork profits come from better early feeding.

"A RED ROSE FEED FOR EVERY NEED"

Over-Organization Sometimes Ruinous

How often have many of us noticed that some sensible suggestion or some worthwhile project has been lost because of too many varying types of committees being called upon to deal with it?

Doubtless a lot of us here in Fayette County can recall some of such happenings in our own community.

Perhaps either for our "good" or "bad", the "committee" has become a rather solidly entrenched American institution. Most of us can recall cases where an idea was seized upon and almost instantly became "over-organized".

It appears to have become a fact that organizations of every conceivable kind, governmental, economic, social, fraternal, labor etc., seem obsessed with the notion that it is necessary to appoint committees and sub-committees to deal with all manner of subjects from the vital to the trivial.

We must be fair enough to recognize that, in many, perhaps most cases, committees are necessary and do a reasonably good job. However, there are occasions too often where committees can become a menace. Today it is being pointed out that our national defense probably is one of those cases.

Not long ago the Wall Street Journal in a feature article began with this statement, "If America ever does succumb to the Soviet powers, historians will likely record as a contributing factor that the United States tried to defend itself with massed committees".

The committees in question run an exceedingly wide gamut. Some are made up of intellectuals, some of high-ranking service officers, some of businessmen, some of bureaucrats, some of Congressmen. They dominate this nation's defense effort, depress it, and delay it. That observation is backed by leaders in the defense structure, especially those concerned with missile development.

Navy Secretary Gates, for instance, says that there are too many committees — "too many groups with veto power, without responsibility." General Medaris, head of the Army's ballistic missile program, pleads that he is "over-committed." General Irvine of the Air Force observes that committees "... sort of grow like weeds on the side of a road." The head of a concern which has been given the job of designing an intercontinental chemical bomber says "... it just seems every time I try to do something, I trip over a committee."

Some highly revealing evidence was given by Dr. Wernher von Braun, our top rocket expert, in testimony to Congress. He said that he and General Medaris had to leave their work at Huntsville, Alabama, and go frequently to Washington to attend committee hearings. Asked if these hearings were constructive, Dr. von Braun said "I think we have too many." Then asked if the committee system impeded his work, he answered "Yes, definitely." In subsequent testimony he added, in effect, that many members of the committees he has to deal with are brilliant experts in their particular fields, but are at a loss in dealing with various problems and developments involved in missile.

The natural question to ask is why the committee system has gone to such extremes. The Wall Street Journal article provides an answer. The main reason seems to be that "the arms race has become a science race, and military officers and officials no longer approach their problems with assurance — even when they have hired able scientists to develop the weapons of the future. Grasping for certainty, they enlist batteries of Ph.D. outsiders to give advice."

At any rate, it certainly seems that far too many cooks now are stirring the defense broth. Committees have been piled on committees to a bewildering degree. Various solutions are offered, and are being considered by a group of consultants appointed by Defense Secretary McElroy. This group, Mr. McElroy emphasized "is not a committee." Its job is to come up with a sound reorganization program.

Laff-A-Day

Diet and Health

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE advances that are made in medicine are really quite amazing, even to a doctor. That's why I like to keep you informed, once each month, about what is new in the medical field.

Scientists have now developed a multiple dose jet injector which permits speedy administration of Salk polio vaccine in mass inoculation programs.

New Instrument

The new instrument, which has no needle, can inoculate patients as quickly as one every four to six seconds. The jet injection is relatively safe, although slight bleeding does occur in at least 10 per cent of those inoculated with the instrument.

It does away with the fear many patients have of a needle, and no sterilization is necessary.

Lack of Appetite

Parents who are worried about their children's lack of appetite will find the new drug, Somatovite, valuable. By combining a low dose of reserpine with vitamins B₁ and B₁₂, the new drug produces the best results in children who are high strung, nervous and irritable.

The calming effect of reserpine permits such youngsters to have a relaxed meal. Investigators say Somatovite has produced "striking" gains in weight and appetite improvement.

A new use has been found for the drug chlorothiazide which is itself a relatively new compound. First used for relieving edema, or waterlogging of tissues in patients with congestive heart failure, the drug has also been found helpful in treating high blood pressure.

In tests on patients taking only chlorothiazide, a drop in blood pressure of about 16 per cent was noted. When this drug was used in conjunction with others, the total reduction by the combined therapy averaged 27 per cent.

Treating Burns

A British physician reports success with a completely "open" method of treating burns. After being cleaned with cetrimide, the burned surface is exposed to the air to dry.

In hot, dry climates, it is reported, this occurs within one to two hours. There is no loss of plasma or electrolytes.

The patient reportedly suffers from no shock and there is no infection, since the surface is dry.

Analyst Takes Close Look At Nasser's Mideast Move

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Gamal Abdel Nasser has opened his battle for complete mastery of the Arab East.

Charges that King Saud of Saudi Arabia plotted against Nasser and his United Arab Republic — and the manner in which the charges were made — indicate there will be no quarter given and none expected in this developing war between two sets of Arab rulers.

The instrument for Nasser's initial attack was Lt. Col. Abdul Hamid Serraj, the Syrian army's young, bulky, blue-jawed chief of intelligence, who claims he was offered a huge bribe to see to it that Nasser died in an attack on his plane.

The charges are fantastic. It is asking the outside world to swallow a great deal to suppose that so shrewd a leader as Saud would attempt to subvert Serraj, of all people. Serraj is known throughout the Arab East for his fanatical devotion to Nasser and the extremes of Arab nationalism.

It hardly matters whether a plot existed or not. (Saudi Arabia rejected the charges.) The point is that Nasser's propaganda machine, now dovetailed with that of the Syrians in the new United Arab Republic, has opened the most dangerous of attacks on its foes in the Arab East — the rulers of Jordan, Iraq and Saudi Arabia. All three stand in the way of Nasser's vaulting ambitions.

The attack is a daring one in a place like the Arab East. Saud is custodian of the two holiest shrines of Islam, Mecca and Medina, and as such has claim to being the spiritual leader of all Arab Moslems.

But Saud resisted Nasser's overtures for a united Arab front. So have Kings Hussein of Jordan and Faisal of Iraq. Now Nasser will attempt to build severe popular pressures under the kings by fanning the glowing embers of Arab nationalism into flaming violence.

Most of the Arab world is now embroiled in the squabble, all the way from Iraq across North Africa to Tunis, where pro-Western President Habib Bourguiba complains that Nasser has been plotting his assassination.

Nasser apparently wants no rivals at all. He tried blandishments, and that didn't work. Now he appears ready to ram his "liberation" down the throats of the other rulers. He cannot do that without invoking violence which would endanger not only Middle East peace, but the peace of the whole world.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

P. G. WODEHOUSE tells me that a 62-year-old lady in P. Bad Axe, Mich., was knocked down in the street by a flying cow! It had been set in motion by a speeding automobile, and it smacked the lady amidships. Undaunted, she arose at the count of nine, and demanded shrilly "Who threw that cow!"

More of those tall Texan lighties one oil tycoon boasted he'd been around the whole world twice in a single day: from Dallas to Houston, and back! ... Another tried to buy either the Queen Mary or the Queen Elizabeth for his private yacht. But those Cunard meanies wouldn't break up the set ... And a swank restaurant outside Fort Worth inserted this "come-on" ad in a local gazette: "All you can eat for $125,000!"

There are a powerful lot of strings to a man's life, observes Terry Rattigan: apron, heart, purse, and harp.

Who Makes Decisions?

By George Sokolsky

Orderly government is the product of long trial and error, resulting in a system which is understood by those who work with it and is generally accepted.

Our system is outlined in the Constitution, is implemented by acts of Congress and the decisions of the courts, particularly the Supreme Court.

It is an interesting system because it permits the greatest degree of human liberty by deliberately sacrificing the power of the government to rule by fiat, which has usually been the method of rulers.

Instead, the Constitution established a system of checks and balances so that absolute power is lodged nowhere and in no person.

That such a system should have survived so long is remarkable, because the looseness of authority makes for waste and inefficiency. It also gives ample opportunity for political racketeers to abuse the opportunities that are open to them.

Only in time of war have Americans consented to the application of extraordinary powers by the President. Unfortunately World War II never quite ended. It has continued into what is for convenience called the "cold war," a political extension of a war of balance and attrition.

This "cold war," in its current phase, is marked by a contest in the production of new weapons which are themselves novel applications of newly revealed scientific principles.

There are those who continue to comfort themselves with tales of Russian thefts of American secret formulae, a comfort which true or untrue is now of no political significance. The fact is that Soviet Russia, if not absolutely equal to us in this field, is not far behind.

Should it be proved, as it well might be, that Russian submarines off the coast of Florida caused American Sputniks to fail, it can only be that they already have a device of defense against rockets and missiles, and therefore are ahead of us.

If the Russians get far ahead of us in this field, it will be argued that we must change our system of government, as some now want us to change our system of education to meet the enemy.

In a word, there will be those who will attribute our failure, should we fail, to a loose system of government in which individual liberty is regarded as more valuable than governmental efficiency.

Already in the time of Franklin D. Roosevelt, because of depression and war, there were those who set the presidency apart as a sacerdotal office, with the President as sort of a magus, a deus ex machina that could solve all problems with perfection of wisdom.

Harry Truman was too human for such a conception, and it looked as though it might disappear with him, but it returned with Eisenhower, the very Republicans who had criticized Roosevelt as an absolutist, seeking such perfections in Eisenhower.

However, no matter how popular the President remained, he could not transfer such popularity to Sherman Adams and Jim Hagerty who look and act very human, indeed, and often exceed constitutional authority.

In the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee's hearings the testimony which I am now engaged in reading, time after time, the question of authority arises. Gen. Twining's outburst in his debate with Sen. Symington is most interesting, because there in lies both a criticism and an objective view of our problem.

The issue is a clear one. Congress votes the appropriations. It needs to know what it is voting for. It needs to know whether there is an honest administration of funds voted; whether enough or too much money is voted and what is accomplished thereby.

That is constitutionally the function of Congress.

To this challenge of this function, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Twining, replied: "... I will give you all the information you want, and the witnesses will give you all the information you want, but you should not bring them back and say, 'is this adequate?' after the decision has been made."

"In the military terminology, a commander makes a decision and if everybody starts bucking it, it is just no good, you have no military."

But who made the decision to question: Was it the military, the scientists, the experts or the politicians? Was it the Bureau of the Budget which has no decision-making authority under the Constitution?

Who ultimately decides such questions? Under our system of government, when it is orderly, Congress decides.

pie they knew. I never could do that.

"Yet, I think my very rootlessness had a lot to do with my becoming a writer. My mother died when I was 11, and my father was away a great deal. I still remained very close to my father by writing him letters."

"I think that's something we lack nowadays. This is the great age of communication. We can pick up a phone and talk to anyone. But we're losing the art of letter writing, of communicating with each other with the written word."

Self-Employed Subject to Tax

Russell A. Welch, district director of the Internal Revenue Service for the Cincinnati District, reminds self-employed lawyers, dentists, osteopaths, veterinarians, chiropractors, naturopaths, and optometrists that they are subject to self-employment tax under the 1956 amendments to the social security law.

Members of this group must pay the social security self-employment tax for each taxable year (after 1955) in which their net earnings from self-employment are $400 or more. For 1957 the amount of this tax is a 3.38 per cent of the first $4,200 of their net earnings from self-employment.

This self-employment tax must be paid each year with the taxpayer's U. S. individual income tax return. The proper form, Schedule SE of Form 1040, will be part of their income tax package. Net earnings reported on Schedule SE are recorded in the taxpayer's personal social security account under his name and social security account number.

WHY ARE WE PROUD OUR SON HAS A NEWSPAPER ROUTE?

BECAUSE any parent is proud of their son when people point him out as an alert, reliable, young businessman, who is using his spare time every day to serve his neighborhood with its most popular newspaper.

We are glad, too, because such work enables him to earn so much of the money he needs for clothes, sports, hobbies, and fun—as well as build up a savings account that will help him go on to college. Also, because his route supplements his school studies so nicely with practical business experience.

MOST OF ALL, we are happy because his daily newspaper work is helping him to develop into a more manly, self-reliant and resourceful young fellow. And that's why we both are giving him every encouragement to make a success of this first business venture which means so much to his future.

First Concrete Bridge 50 Years Old

HISTORIC BRIDGE -- The first big concrete bridge span in Fayette County is 50 years old this year. It crosses Paint Creek on Millikan Ave., and cost $5,160.

By B. E. KELLEY

It is now 50 years since the first large concrete bridge was built in Fayette County — over Paint Creek on Millikan Ave.

The 100-foot span was built at a cost of $5,160 by Addison Hays and son, Frank, from plans and specifications made by Frank M. Kennedy, who for many years was Fayette County's engineer, or "surveyor" as the official was called in those days.

Apparently the structure, although in need of repairs underneath to cover some of the reinforcing steel exposed by years of deterioration, is good for many more years.

The bridge is 20 feet in width, and has two piers. It was constructed to permit many times normal flow of the stream during flood periods, yet the floor was nearly submerged by water during the memorable flood of March, 1913, when 13 inches of rain fell within a few days.

At that time water flowed over Millikan Ave. most of its length to a depth up to two feet or more, and also spilled around the south end of the bridge and nearly crossed Paint St. east of where the former passenger station is located.

But the bridge is securely anchored with abutments and piers extending many feet below the bed of the stream, and the piers are protected by walls extending back into the embankments.

I WATCHED the work when it was being done, and recall that excavating was by hand. Horse-drawn scoops were used to move earth

C. of C. Warns Against Phoney Advertising Deals

William Stoughton, manager of the Washington C. H. Chamber of Commerce cautions local businessmen to be on guard against the racketeers who prey upon them through the solicitation of advertising for phoney labor publications.

According to Stoughton, millions of dollars have been taken from businessmen the country over by promoters of fake labor publications through the fraudulent sale of worthless advertising. These bogus labor publications have no bona fide connection with organized labor. They depend for their success upon the gullibility and timidity of businessmen and upon their desire to avoid labor trouble.

Describing how the racket works, Stoughton states: "The phoney labor publication solicitor may start his pitch with the claim that he represents an AFL-CIO paper. After praising this prospect as a known friend of labor, he may urge cooperation in some special campaign such as fighting communism, or even racketeering in labor. Advertising is solicited, and resistance is encountered the solicitor may imply that labor difficulties will result. Thousands of businessmen have authorized advertising in such publications grudgingly for fear of getting into possible labor difficulties.

"The organized labor movement has been fighting a long running battle against this racket," Stoughton added. "The editors of honest union publications are in the forefront of this fight."

under the bridge and clear the creek channel for the new structure.

Addison Hays was later county commissioner for two terms, but the bridge he and his son built, as I recall it, was the only span of its size they ever constructed.

I recall that a great deal of interest was shown in the bridge as work on it progressed, and because it was something new, engineers from other counties visited here and inspected the structure during its building and afterward.

The amount of reinforcing steel built into the bridge was probably more than used in some structures today, but Engineer Kennedy made ample allowance for strength that would take care of heavy loads, such as have passed over it frequently ever since it was built.

THE NAME of the builder and date — 1908—were placed in the south end of the bridge, on the east wing of the structure.

The bridge formerly spanning Paint Creek at the point where the historic structure stands, was made of piling and was similar to those out-moded piling bridges across the stream under the B & O and DT&I railroads, which are a constant menace to property during flood times. They catch much drift and cause the water to back up in the stream as was the case during the memorable 1913 flood.

At the present time such a bridge would cost many times the $5,160 expended for the structure.

Engineers today, as result of years of experience with concrete construction, would use some different methods than those of 50 years ago.

Clark Rowe, James Ford and John M. Jones were commissioners when the bridge was authorized and built.

And as ye would do to you, do ye also to them likewise

What do you really wish that men would do to you... leave you alone? Try it and you will have a lonely world... no home, no neighborhood, no church, no nation. Do you expect your employees to work for you while you forget their welfare. Do you wish others to deal kindly and generously with you? Do you demand that people be honest, truthful, and trustworthy with you? Would you rather others be courteous, and appreciative of you and lend a helping hand when you have a hard task to do? They who keep the Golden Rule will discover that it must work both ways. It is "the rule of God." In every land and in every age it is the basic rule for good living. One cannot improve on it. If you want Golden Rule treatment from others you must give Golden Rule treatment to them. It will work in the experiences of every man. It is the Divine Way. The Golden Rule is still very Golden.

Mrs. Harold Bonegutter, president, read an invitation from the Town and Country Garden Club, to attend its meeting on March 26.

Chores to be done in the garden for the month of March were listed by Mrs. Pearl Breakfield.

The program was presented by Mrs. Howard Barney. She used as her subject "Emphasis on Annuals."

Some of the advantages in raising annuals, Mrs. Barney said, are their low cost, their great value as cut flowers and their long season of bloom. She stated that for background the castor-oil plant and the sun flower are suitable but she warned, "do not raise the castor-oil plant if there are small children because its seeds are very poisonous."

Mrs. Barney closed her presentation by saying "a good general rule to follow in planting seeds is to cover them with soil equal in depth to three or four times the diameter of the seed and never deeper than one inch."

Slides, taken while club members were on vacation trips, were shown by Mrs. Virgil Garringer.

Mrs. Kellenberger served a delicious dessert course to 10 members and one guest, Mrs. Jesse Linton.

Mail Bag Club Meets In Fackler Home

Mrs. Minnie Fackler entertained 14 members and three guests of the Buckeye Chapter of the International Mail Bag Club Thursday night.

The guests were Mrs. Fackler's mother, Mrs. Mattie Willison, Miss Sandra Rogers and Master Joe Hicks.

The business session was conducted by Mrs. Roy Rogers, president. Mrs. Viola Jones was the program leader for the evening.

Tempting refreshments were served by Mrs. Fackler, assisted by Mrs. Jones.

Mrs. Geer Hostess To Bookwaller Class

The Bookwaller Willing Workers class held its meeting in the home of Mrs. Raymond Geer Thursday afternoon with 14 members and four guests present.

Guests were Mrs. Eugene Geer, Mrs. Earl Geer, Mrs. A. L. Spargur and Mrs. Franklin Ellars.

Mrs. Joseph Ellars volunteered to finish knotting the comforter which the class has been making as a project.

Mrs. Ervin Grace, vice president, conducted the business session. Assisting Mrs. Geer in the afternoon hostess duties were Mrs. Cleon Coe and Mrs. Howard Reid.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grubbs returned Friday from a two-month vacation in Tampa, Fla. Events of interest occurring during their visit were the Florida State Fair, Gasparilla Parade, School Children Parade and the Shrine Parade.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Orihood and son, Dale, had as Thursday dinner guests, Mr. Allan Sawtelle of Cincinnati, and Mr. and Mrs. George Sprague, Mr. Larry Johnson, Mr. David Boswell and Mr. Max Grim, all of Washington C. H.

The agency put this week's U.S. output at 84,202 cars and 18,240 trucks, compared to 140,161 cars and 17,635 trucks last year.

Scholarships Available for Students Here

High school students here who are interested in going to college to study to become teachers are eligible for two scholarships - one offered by the City Parent-Teacher Assn. Council, and the other by the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers Assns.

A $250 scholarship will be awarded again this year by the Washington C. H. Parent-Teacher Assn. Council to a worthy WHS senior, who is going to college to prepare for a teaching career.

Although the Parent-Teacher Organizations of the schools in the Miami Trace district are not affiliated with the state PTA, seniors in the district's high schools may apply for the $200 scholarship offered by the state PTA, it was said.

This will be the twelfth year the state PTA has offered these scholarships to encourage high school seniors to prepare themselves in college for teaching.

The program was started in 1947 with 37 scholarships. Last year 261 were awarded.

Applications for the state PTA scholarships were completed last week by seniors on blank forms mailed to high school principals in January. The applications were due in the state PTA office last week. The awards will be announced in April by the Memorial Scholarship Committee.

No applications are required for the Washington C. H. PTA Council's scholarship.

Applications for these ballots could have been made by members of the armed forces after last Jan. 1 and they may continue to get them, so long as they are completed and returned in time to reach the clerk of the Board of Elections by noon of May 6.

The board also announced that it will accept applications now from civilians outside the United States for absent voter ballots for the primary. The deadline for applications for these ballots is 4 p. m. on May 1. A member of the board commented that the board seldom receives applications for this type of ballot.

THE BOARD expects to receive its printed primary ballots from the Bishop-Wilson Printing Co., the successful bidder, within the next few days.

A total of 11,030 Republican and Democratic ballots and 5,315 "questions and issues" ballots were ordered. They will cost $1,408.50, a board official said.

The "questions and issues" ballots are for Washington C. H., where a 3.6-mill school levy proposal will be up for decision, and Bloomingburg, where the renewal of a 1.5-mill levy for current operating expenses is sought.

The Washington C. H. school levy, which is for employment of additional teachers and salary increases, requires a 60 per cent favorable vote for passage. The Bloomingburg levy requires a 55 per cent favorable vote for passage.

Regional Berths Sought by Ohio Prep Cagers

16 Coveted Listings Up for Grabs; Mighty Middies Still Winning

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's top-talent high school cage teams hit the payoff stage tonight in their bid for regional tournament berths.

Seven Class A and three Class AA quintets grabbed some of the 16 coveted regional berths Friday night. Middletown's seven - time Double-A state champions led the way into the Cincinnati playoffs with a rugged 66-62 win over three-time champion Hamilton.

It was the third win over the Big Blue for the Middies this season, and big Jerry Lucas contributed 29 points to the winning cause.

Cincinnati St. Xavier, with a 23-0 record, joined Middletown's 22-game winners in the Queen City regional with a neat 73-48 victory over Cincinnati Taft. Cuyahoga Falls, with a 15-6 record, annexed a Class AA regional berth at Kent, sweeping aside ever - threatening Canton McKinley by 50-49 in an overtime.

Of the 29 teams still in the Class AA scrap, survivors of the starting field of 387, a half-dozen have not tasted defeat. Back of St. Xavier and Middletown are Cleveland East Tech, Zanesville and Columbus North with 21-0, and Toledo Scott with 19-0.

Newark St. Francis nipped Jacksontown 46-44 in an overtime at Columbus to reach the Class A regional again. Last year the Newark team was ousted in the first regional game at Athens, but this year it goes to Troy.

St. Francis, which is in, and unbeaten Bucyrus Holmes - Liberty (21-0) are the only ones of the 25 Class A survivors with a chance to repeat from last year.

The Canton Class A regional was filled in Friday night's games. Dillonvale of the Eastern District and Hartford, Columbiana and unbeaten Northwestern of Holmes County (25-0) of the Northeast are triumphant. Other regional qualifiers are Pleasantville (20-3) and Buchtel-York, for the Athens playoffs.

Miller City's 1950 Class A kings, second-rated in the final Associated Press poll of sports writers, were snuffed out Friday night, 59 to 53 by Ridgeville, after building up a 21-2 record. That left Dixie of Montgomery County (24-0), the eighth-ranked club, as the lone survivor of the Class A top 10.

Hamilton was rated ninth in Class AA, and The Big Blue setback left eight of the final top 10 still on deck. Another top - flight casualty was Springfield, the 1925 and 1930 Class AA champion, a 56-47 loser to Dayton Fairview.

Three of the top 10, Elyria (8), Cleveland East Tech (2) and Cleveland St. Ignatius (10) are favored to make up three-fourths of the regional field at Berea after tonight's contests.

Zanesville (3) is expected to defeat Tiltonsville for a berth at Kent, while both Toledo Scott (4) and Columbus North (6) are favored to move into the Marion-Toledo playoffs.

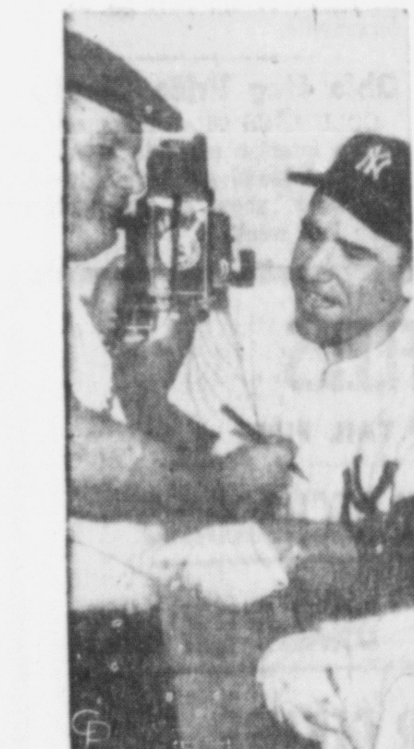

With St. Xavier (7) and Middletown (1) in the Cincinnati regional, the stage is set for some stirring combat before the four state final-ists are named next Saturday.

Michigan Tankers Hold Big Lead

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Michigan's undefeated swimming team carried a 21-point lead into the final seven events of the Big Ten conference meet tonight.

The Wolverines, led by American collegiate record breaker and double winner Tony Tashnick, picked up 58 points in winning four of the eight events completed Friday night.

Defending champion Michigan State and Ohio State were tied for second place with 37 points and Iowa was a close fourth with 31.

'They'd Better Be' — Coach

WHS Diamond Prospects 'Better'

Prospects are for a "better" high school baseball team here this spring than last year, Washington C. H. High School Coach Herb Russell said Friday.

"They'd better be, Russell admitted. Last year's team won just one game.

"I'd hate to go out on a limb and say we'd win the league or anything like that," Russell cautioned Friday. But he added: "A lot of the boys I had last spring played Babe Ruth ball or Legion ball in the summer and picked up some experience that will pick us up this year."

Hampered by a lack of upperclassmen and a minimum of products from the recently - formed youth leagues, Russell's team succeeded last season in beating only Franklin Heights — then just a two - year school. "I can't for the life of me see why we should do worse than that," he said, commenting "certainly, we can't do much worse."

Bill Herman and Dick Welch are among the seniors who picked up youth league experience after the end of the high school season last year. Both can pitch, while Welch doubles in the outfield and Herman at shortstop.

Jack Anders broke an ankle near the end of last season, but Russell says he expects the senior catcher will be ready to go this year.

ONLY LEFTOVER junior prospect is Mike Lawrence, a third baseman, but Russell says some boys in this — and other — upper classes may come out this year even though they didn't last.

Buddy Lynch at short stop, Bob Huff at second base, Terry Stillings in the outfield, John Campbell at first base and Bill Crooks in the outfield and at first base will be back. Preston Bentley, who played part of the season last year, is expected out after work in the Babe Ruth league.

There should be quite a few freshmen from the youth leagues coming into high school action, but Russell says he isn't sure he knows of all of them. Gil Crouse, a catcher, David Reno an infielder, and Bill Southworth, a strong pitcher, are among the candidates expected.

First drill won't be held until a week from Monday — and even then it may have to be held inside — Russell said. The weather will rule as to the beginning of outside drills.

Jack O'Rourke, although he is not officially on the baseball staff, is expected to put his college playing experience to work coaching the pitchers and catchers on the squad. O'Rourke is on the high school staff for both football and basketball.

Gomes Wins Decision in Dull Match

NEW YORK (AP) —Harold Gomes today held a slim, split decision victory over fourth ranking featherweight Ike Chestnut but he wasn't crowing.

The reason? A dull 10-rounder, marred by continuous holding and boos from many of the 2,000 fans in Madison Square Garden for the telecast bout Friday night.

Each blamed the other for the lackluster contest.

"He wouldn't give me any punching room," moaned Gomes, 24, an unranked puncher from Providence, R. I. "He locked me up inside and made it seem as if I was doing the holding. I would rather have fought a war. I wanted to please the fans so much in my first Garden main event. Instead I heard boos for the first time in any of my fights."

"This was my 14th fight in the Garden and the first time I've heard boos," wailed Chestnut, 26. "He kept on holding. I don't know what hurts me most, the boos or the decision."

There were only two lively rounds, the seventh and ninth. Chestnut had been cut over the left eye near the end of the sixth. Gomes, who has a numerically impressive .500 knockout average for his 44 pro fights, opened up with both hands in the ninth for a good round.

Ohio Sportsmen Awaiting Parley

COLUMBUS (AP) —The League of Ohio Sportsmen will hold its 50th annual convention here March 13-16. Allied meetings will be held simultaneously by Ohio Game Protectors Assn., Ohio Archery Assn., Ohio Field Trial Federation, Ohio Dog Owners Assn. and the Ohio Crow Hunters Assn.

Annual convention of the Ohio Conservation Congress will be held at Cincinnati this year, March 21-23. The Wildlife Management Assn. will hold meetings with the Conservation Congress this year.

National Wildlife Week is being observed March 16-20 this year.

It's Time for Opening Games In Annual Grapefruit League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS In the fourth inning of the seventh game of the 1956 World Series, Roy Campanella doubled off Yankee pitcher Tommy Byrne and scored moments later on a single. It turned out to be the winning run as the Brooklyn Dodgers sewed up their first world championship.

Times have changed. The Dodgers have moved to Los Angeles. Campanella lies half-paralyzed in a Glen Cove, N.Y. hospital and Byrne has retired.

Herb Score's scheduled first game appearance for Cleveland since his untimely eye injury last May was postponed. The young lefthander suffered a sprained right ankle running around a Tucson YMCA gym Friday and will be sidelined for a few days.

The latest hospital bulletin on Campanella indicated that the burly catcher is showing general improvement and his paralysis is slowly disappearing. Roy suffered a broken neck in an automobile accident Jan. 28.

Byrne, who had said several times he was considering retirement from baseball, made it official yesterday. He has joined the staff of an oil company in Sanford, N.C.

Much of the interest will center on the Los Angeles and San Francisco teams. The Dodgers play the Philadelphia Phillies in a night game in Miami while the Giants meet the Cleveland Indians in Phoenix, Ariz.

In other games, the Chicago Cubs meet the Baltimore Orioles at Scottsdale, Ariz.; Cincinnati

Today's College Cage Tilts To Tell League Champions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS West Virginia, gunning for the national basketball championship and North Carolina, last season's winner, will be seeking to wrap up conference championships tonight and at least one more league titleholder will be crowned when the firing is over.

West Virginia and William and Mary advanced to the finals of the Southern Conference tournament Friday night while North Carolina and Maryland moved into the payoff game of the Atlantic Coast competition.

The Mountaineers took Richmond 81-70 and William and Mary nipped George Washington 57-56. North Carolina fought off hustling North Carolina State 64-58 and Maryland upset top-seeded Duke in overtime, 71-65.

So, Saturday's schedule has these all-important games: West Virginia vs William and Mary, North Carolina vs Maryland, Michigan State vs Indiana, Oregon State vs Idaho, Wyoming vs Montana and Colorado State vs Utah.

The Michigan State-Indiana afternoon game will decide the Big 10 conference kingly. Each has won nine games and lost four.

Oregon State can win the Pacific Coast Conference crown by getting past Idaho. The Beavers set up the clincher Friday night by defeating Washington State 67-62 while California slumped into second place by dropping a 64-62 decision to Oregon on Bud Kuykendall's basket in the final second. Oregon State is 12-3 and California 12-4.

Wyoming, with a 10-3 record, can ice the Skyline Conference title in its game against Montana. Colorado State is one game back.

Sophomore Jerry West led second-ranked West Virginia to its victory. He scored 26 points and hauled in 17 rebounds. The triumph, however, was costly. Star guard Don Vincent broke a bone in his left ankle and will miss tonight's game.

Slick shooting from the free throw line and clutch firing by Roy Lange enabled William and Mary to get past George Washington.

Pete Brennan was North Carolina's strong man down the stretch. He scored 16 of his 23 points in the last 13 minutes.

Charley McNeil, one of two sophomores who started for Maryland against Duke's all-senior club, came through with the first two baskets in the overtime to give Maryland the lead it never lost.

Among the small colleges, Wheaton, winner of the NCAA college division crown last year, beat St. Norbert's of Wisconsin 68-66 in the first round of the Great Lakes Regional at Aurora, Ill. Tennessee State, the NAIA pionship tourney starting in Kansas City Monday by liminating North Carolina College 115-65 at Nashville for the District 29 title.

WHS Freshmen Takes Night off; Challengers Battle

The Washington C. H. High School freshmen basketballers take a night off Saturday and watch as three other freshman teams — Greenfield, Little Miami and Wilmington — battle for the privilege of meeting them Monday night.

The Lion frosh and the three other teams are the only teams remaining in an eight - way freshman tournament that has been going on all week. The champ wins nothing except the name of "champ," but there's been a lot of fierce competition and good basketball all the way along.

Greenfield and Little Miami met at 6:30 p. m. Saturday in a do-or-die game which will give one or the other of them the right to meet Wilmington at 9 p. m.

Wilmington, winner of two games in the winner's bracket, did not take its first defeat until Thursday night, when the Hurricane lost to the Lions in a quarter - final game.

A match between two teams of Washington C. H. High School boys will be held at 8 p. m. Saturday, giving the winner of the evening's first game a rest before going back to meet Wilmington in the second game.

First game Monday is set at 7 p. m. Washington C. H. could settle the tournament then, but if the challenger wins, another game must be played at 9 p. m. between the same two teams.

Tebbetts Thinks His Redlegs Have Right Balance This Year

TAMPA, (AP) —"I guess the best way to say it, is that we've got a better balanced ball club," said Manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Cincinnati Redlegs. "We've got pitching, power and speed."

Birdie, who almost won a pennant with power alone in 1956, then found his Redlegs down to fourth, 15 games behind champion Milwaukee, last season explained: "We know you can't win with pitching alone, or with power alone."

"So this past winter we graded some of our power and got some pitching help and some speed. Now, I think, we have the right combination."

"Right now, I'm considering only Haddix (southpaw Harvey Haddix) and Lawrence (Right-hander Brooks Lawrence) as starting pitchers. They are the only two I've made up my mind on. We'll wait and see about the rest."

The Reds got Haddix from Philadelphia in exchange for outfielder Wally Post in a five-day December campaign that netted six pitchers, including Bill Wright from Baltimore and Bob Purkey from Pittsburgh.

That Christmas shopping also brought the Redlegs first baseman Dee Fondy from the Pirates in exchange for slugging, but ailing, Ted Kluszewski.

"We're set at catching with Ed Bailey and Smokey Burgess and maybe Dutch Dotterer (303 and 79 RBI at Nashville)," said Tebbetts. "And we're set at first with George Crowe, Fondy and Steve Bilko (purchased for a ton of gold from Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League). We're set in the rest of the infield, Don Hoak and Johnny Temple at second, third, Roy McMillan at short and Johnny Temple at second. "In the outfield I start with Frank Robinson and Gus Bell. That leaves me a hole out there. But I can use either one in center or shift them to either side. Maybe my other outfielder is Dan Morejon (.236 at Havana) or Vada Pinson (.367 in Class C). "But anyway, I've got speed. That infield from third to second is fast. If I assume I get power and not speed in that other outfield position, then I've got speed with Fondy at first.

"We'll win more games with this club." How many more? "Enough," said Birdie, "to go for the pennant."

NW Ohio Weather Parley Scheduled

TOLEDO (AP)—The Weather Bureau has called a meeting for March 18 in the Civil Defense control center at nearby Whitehouse to discuss organization of a tornado alert program for northwest Ohio and southern Michigan.

Don Coleman, chief weather Bureau meteorologist here, said police and fire departments, state police, CD organizations, the Red Cross and a number of other organizations have been invited to the meeting.

Coleman said the Weather Bureau has increased its capability of detecting tornadoes, but that this serves no purpose unless the public and service agencies can be properly alerted when one is approaching.

Ohio School Boards Planning Conference

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio School Boards Assn. has called a meeting in Columbus March 18 to map a program of community conferences on education. More than 150 lay leaders, including representatives of industry, labor, farm and professions have been invited. Sanitarian Cited By State Group

Health Board's Todd Gains Recognition

The Ohio Assn. of Public Health Sanitarians has announced today that John Todd, Route 70 north, sanitarian with the Fayette County Health Department, has been designated a Certified Public Health Sanitarian.

To qualify for this certification, Todd was required to meet the association's standards for satisfactory education and experience in the field of sanitation. He had to pass a written Civil Service examination and undergo a personal interview before the association's Certification Board.

This certification program is voluntary in Ohio and is aimed at raising the standards of sanitarians employed by city, county, and state health departments and to provide professional recognition to qualified persons.

Todd joined the Fayette County Health Department in 1954. Prior to that, he completed a training course in Public Health Sanitation with the Ohio Department of Health Southwest District, Dayton. Since he has been with Fayette County, Todd has enlarged many of the department's sanitation programs.

Todd's educational background includes a Bachelor's Degree and Master's Degree in Science which he earned at the Ohio University. He recently received his Master's Degree in Public Health from the University of North Carolina.

Proceeds, both from the dance and from the classes, go into booster club coffers to buy new equipment for the Bloomingburg school band.

Three separate dance classes were held this year — one for sixth, seventh and eighth grade pupils, one for high school students and one for adults.

Fire Destroys House in Octa

Flames were lapping through the John Adams home across from the Steinmetz's store in Octa about 11 a. m. Saturday. Observers said by telephone it looked as if the whole house was lost.

Fire had broken out about half an hour before and, although most of the furniture and goods from the house had been saved, there seemed to be little chance of saving the frame four-room dwelling itself.

Volunteers from the village were fighting the fire, but word had been received that the Sabina fire department was on its way.

The home is occupied by Adams, Mrs. Adams, and their four children, as well as Frank Sparks. All escaped unscathed.

Share of Profits Sought by UEW

CLEVELAND — The International Union of Electrical Workers will ask for a profit-sharing plan and a full guaranteed annual wage in contract negotiations that start March 29 with General Motors.

Those were among the proposals approved by the union's GM Conference Board at a meeting here Friday. Other demands call for a ban on farming out of work, a method of handling the problems growing out of automation, protection of seniority in plant movements, improved pensions and insurance and reduction in work hours.

Blue and Gold Banquet Held By Cub Pack

Ingenuity marked both the program and the setting for the annual "blue and gold" banquet of Cub Pack 303 in the Milledgeville School Friday night.

The dinner table was gay with crinkled streamers of blue and gold crepe paper and blue and gold candles. Each of the Cubs had also added his personal touch to the decorations with something he had made, such as a candle, a shamrock or Indian tepee.

Den Chief Billy Creamer and Cub David Avey had made napkin rings with the Lion rank emblem on them. Names of the Cubs and their guests were inscribed on them and they were used as place cards.

Iceing on the big cake also carried out the blue and gold color scheme.

David Jenkins gave the invocation.

For the entertainment, Navy Chief Pat Waller showed films of "Disneyland" and "Men in the Navy."

Games were led later by David and Tommy Weaver, after the group had sung "Happy Birthday" for Mrs. Paul Avey.

Parents and their sons and daughters at the banquet were: Chief and Mrs. Waller and Sheila, Cynthia and Patrick; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Creamer and Barbara, Billy and Bonnie; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Pope and Bobby; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Weaver and Tommy, David and Phyllis; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hodge and Roger, Kenny and Sue; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jenkins and David and Lynn; Cubmaster Charles Hiser and Curtis and Debbie and Roy LeVernier.

Clown Entertains Fathers and Sons At Mason Banquet

It was a special occasion of course, not just a regular Masonic meeting. It was the lodge's annual banquet, and the "program" was Flippo the Clown, television star. Some 110 Masons, their fathers and their sons, along with the two dozen outsiders, watched as he performed magic tricks and entertained with jokes and rhymes.

Wilbur Rapp, the worshipful master, introduced officers, past masters and 25-year members in attendance at the meeting. Dinner music was provided by Wilbur Snapp.

Women of the Bloomingburg Order of Eastern Star served the dinner, which featured steak and all the trimmings.
